Airport adds two new response vehicles to fleet

By Manny Cruz
manny@postguam.com

The airport announced on Tuesday the addition of two new safety vehicles to strengthen its fleet.

At a press conference at the A.B. Won Pat Guam International Airport yesterday, GIAA Deputy Executive Manager Pedro Roy Martinez introduced two of the airport's newest Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting (ARFF) vehicles.

"This is an exciting day, as we strengthen our airport's ability to meet (Federal Aviation Administration) safety guidelines," Martinez said.

The new vehicles must meet strict performance requirements ranging from weather handling to speed.

"Every vehicle in our fleet has to meet a timed response requirement of three minutes to any point at the airport," said GIAA spokeswoman Rolenda Faasuumalie.

The additional vehicles were purchased through a federal contribution of $1.25 million, and a local appropriation of $125,000.

'NOT A BAD RETURN': This 3,000 gallon firefighting vehicle is one of two vehicles added to the airport fleet, Tuesday, Aug. 15. The A.B. Won Pat Guam International Airport Authority held a commissioning ceremony for two new vehicles added to its Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting fleet, bringing the total to seven vehicles. "That's not a bad return on investment," Gov. Eddie Calvo said. "I bet Batman wishes he had one of these!" Calvo in his introduction stated that, for Guam, everything is "business as usual." The governor was speaking in reference to the recent threats from North Korea, which had placed Aug.

15 as its scheduled date for firing missiles toward the island.

'Unprecedented growth'

The incident, which has turned an international gaze upon the island, has proven beneficial in the short term, according to Calvo.

"We're experiencing unprecedented growth. For the first 10 days of August, our arrivals increased by 7 percent over last year," Calvo said. "And in the past three days we've had 300 more tourist arrivals over last year alone. So thank you, Kim Jong Un!"

The airport authority recently launched its Vision Hulo' campaign, which includes around $167 million in capital improvement projects to boost services and operations, Post files state.

The largest of the projects is the $110 million international arrivals corridor, which would put the airport in compliance with federal regulations set in 2005 by the Transportation Security Administration, by separating arriving passengers from departing passengers and allowing the airport to reclaim full use of the concourse.

Former DOC officer declines plea agreement in kidnapping

By Manny Cruz
manny@postguam.com

A former corrections officer accused in a kidnapping and assault case declined a plea agreement and could see a January trial.

Darren Jared Cruz was arrested in October last year. He was accused of forcing a man and woman known to him into an abandoned mansion in Yona at knife-point one evening. Once there, Cruz physically assaulted the man, court documents state.

Cruz had worked at the Department of Corrections for about a year before the incident.

Request to reschedule trial

The defendant was initially scheduled for an Oct. 16 jury trial.

Cruz's attorney, David Lujan, advised the court that he had a number of federal cases set to go to trial in the coming months, and expressed a desire to move Cruz's trial to January.

The Office of the Attorney General, however, opposed that request.

Lujan previously argued that Cruz's mental condition was a factor in the case.

According to court documents, after Cruz assaulted the man, he walked him and the woman back to their residence, where he allegedly divulged that he had threatened to kill his parents and blow up his car.

Cruz allegedly told the two that he had a sick mind. However, he also told the man that he did not trust him and that if he went to the police, Cruz would kill him and his parents, Post files state.

Cruz is expected in court again on Oct. 3 for a status hearing.

Commission dismisses former police officer's case

By John O'Connor
john@postguam.com

The Civil Service Commission has dismissed the case of former Guam Police Department officer Manuel Perez "pursuant to the signed stipulation of settlement."

Perez and his wife, Renee, were arrested March 7 after the Mandaña Drug Task Force raided the couple's Chalan Pago home and reportedly found several glass pipes, syringes, suspected drug ledgers and other drug paraphernalia, and meth.

Officer Perez pleaded guilty to hindering apprehension and official misconduct in April but was initially hit with additional charges of possession of a Scheduled II substance and obstructing governmental functions.

Perez and GPD had been working on a settlement agreement for his termination. A draft agreement stipulated that Perez would resign from the police department instead of being terminated. In exchange, Perez would withdraw his appeals with the CSC and agree that no back pay, fees or compensation associated with his demotion or termination would be due.

The police department has not yet issued a statement on the dismissal or settlement.

"The major impact on this trust appears to be religious officials and a decrease in credibility," the survey summary states.

Poll participants were asked a series of questions including if their trust in the church or religious faith has increased, decreased or stayed the same.

Twenty-four percent had a decrease in faith while 13 percent had an increase in faith.

"The survey notes this is nearly a 2:1 loss to gain ratio. This is an unusual decline in the overall concept of religious faith in Guam," the poll states.

The loss in trust also contributed to a significant drop in church attendance.

About 30 percent of those surveyed, reported church attendance has dropped in the last year while 12 percent reported attendance had increased.

The survey indicates that the survey was conducted in the month following Lent and Easter and should have been a peak attendance season for the island's Catholic faithful.

Twenty percent of participants reported donating less to the church in the last year while 10 percent stated they donated more.

The surveyors reported that people do not donate or give money to those whom they don't trust and the decline in faith is likely a factor in the corresponding drop in contributions to the church.

Participants were asked if they believe the current allegations of sexual abuse of children by church officials.

Nearly two-thirds of the those surveyed said they believed the allegations of sexual abuse were true while less than 10 percent said they did not believe the allegations.

The poll asked residents if they would recommend a lawyer or a church-affiliated process to a family member or friend who was abused by a church official.

Two hundred twenty-five of the 300 people polled said they would recommend a lawyer. The survey notes this further supports a "strong lack of trust" in religious organizations.

The public was also asked how they believed the alleged sexual abuse of children by church officials could continue unchecked for so long.

"It appears to be a mixture of fear and shame contrasted with the actions of powerful perpetrators and an organizational structure that appears to have shielded them from enforcement actions," the poll summary states. "There is a longstanding culture of denial in Guam for these types of allegations reinforced by church leadership structures that appeared to divert complaints internally."

Tony Diaz, the archdiocese's communications director, said the church is aware these "terrible developments" have impacted many of our local Catholics in a very negative way.

Coadjutor Archbishop Michael Byrnes has publicly stated that great trust has been broken.

Diaz said the church wants to see the poll and the results before making any comment.

resolution ... because once a lawsuit is filed, then it makes (it) very difficult to have one-on-one conversations with key decision-makers," Calvo said.

As part of these avenues, the governor is planning a trip to Washington, D.C., next month - his latest attempt to have a dialogue with federal officials and to convince them to reverse course.

Guam's construction industry filed a lawsuit in federal court several months ago against U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions after federal immigration desk officers rejected nearly all petitions for hiring or renewal of hiring foreign workers on H-2B visas. This visa category has been used, primarily by Guam's construction industry for decades, to fill a labor gap for masons, electricians, steel workers and other blue-collar skilled job categories.

The federal government has said, however, the process hasn't changed, and that employers can use the H-2B visa program only for temporary worker needs, rather than a sustained labor solution for years.

Last year, petitions for this type of visa for Guam had a 99.3 percent rejection rate, according to employers in the Guam Contractors Association who filed the lawsuit.

The contractors recently hit a snag when District Court Magistrate Judge Joaquin V.E. Manibusan Jr. decided he would recommend that the U.S. District Court reject the Guam contractors' motion for a preliminary injunction against the federal government. The plaintiffs had hoped an injunction would allow for approval of H-2B petitions before the final resolution of the case.

The magistrate judge also expressed doubt on the contractors' likelihood of succeeding in their lawsuit against the federal government.

The foreign labor crisis caused the governor to rescind his support of the military buildup a few months ago.

Meanwhile, as the labor shortage delayed construction projects, for the military, the local government and the commercial sector, the Port Authority of Guam continues to see decreases in break-bulk cargo shipments - which include construction materials - compared with last year.

Revenue tonnage fell by about 28 percent and 20 percent for May and June respectively, compared with the same period in 2016.

While the reduction in revenue may not necessarily harm port finances, it is perhaps indicative of labor troubles faced by Guam contractors, according to Port General Manager Joanne Brown.

MEMORANDUM

Date: August 23, 2017

To: Michael Borja
Executive Director, Guam Ancestral Lands Commission

From: Administrator

Subject: GEDA Monthly Progress Report

Hafa Adai!

The following is a monthly progress report on GEDA's efforts to manage Land Bank Trust properties as required by Section 1(i) of the MOU between GEDA and GALC Land Bank Trust:

- Apra Harbor Parcel No. 1 (Commissary Junction) – No change in activity. Tenant is up to date with lease payments.
- Apra Harbor Reservation F-12 (Polaris Point) –
 - Matson Navigation Company –
 - Matson has indicated that although a contractor has been awarded the work, no mobilization has started as of yet however, they believe work “should” be starting in September. Matson expressed their intent on getting more updates from NAVFAC.
 - Matson has also requested for approval of its desire to sublease a small portion of the property to Cabras Marine so that Cabras may maintain and repair Matson chassis. GEDA will be presenting this request for subleasing before the Commission during the August 23rd meeting.
 - Portion of Lot Apra Harbor Reservation F-12, Parcel N14-1, Polaris Point
 - RFP 17-009
 - GEDA issued a request for proposals for Polaris Point which was advertised in the Guam Post on July 20 and 21, 2017
 - The Request for Proposals was also featured in a Front Page Guam Post Article on July 31, 2017
 - GEDA took further steps to advertise the lease availability of the property by forwarding the Ad to various Realty companies and other private entities and organizations in order to do what it could to maximize additional interest and competitive proposals
 - The Due Date for proposals to be received by GEDA is currently scheduled for 4pm, Friday, September 1, 2017.
 - GEDA looks forward to receiving proposals and collaborating with the Commission on reviewing and evaluating any proposals received.

- N5D Mangilao (Route 15) – Issuance of a new RFP for the N5D 72-acre parcel is on hold until resolution is reached on the legal dispute between the GALC and WSTCO Quality Feed and Supply. GALC Legal Counsel indicated they are still in court for this matter. Any further action is still pending clarification with the AG.
- Wettengel Junction – Northern Market LLC is current with its sublease payments as a result of recent payment in the amount of $50,644.56. In recent discussions with Mr. Carlos Camacho, he has indicated that increasing costs of construction materials/labor is forcing the company to downsize the initial scope and design of development proposed on the property and will present its revised plans to the Commission upon completion of its changes.
- License Agreements for Tiyan Properties
 - DPHSS WIC Program – GEDA had received prior notice that it will no longer manage this license which will be handled by GALC staff moving forward. An MOU between DPHSS-WIC and GALC is being finalized.
 - Guam Environmental Protection Agency (GEPA) – GEDA had received prior notice that it will no longer manage this license which will be handled by GALC staff moving forward. An MOU between DPHSS-WIC and GALC is being finalized.

Should you have any questions, please contact Tony Arriola or Diego Mendiola at 647-4332. Si Yu'os Ma'ase' for your continued support in generating revenues for the beneficiaries of the Trust.
